Channelled Writing Workshops 2016

Be introduced to receiving higher guidance through writing for self

During these 2 hour workshops, Delphine explains channelling answers through writing and how it works to open you to your own intuitive abilities. Channelled Writing is a powerful way to receive higher guidance and healing for yourself and others.

You will ask questions that are concerning you and other people and by the end of the 2 hours you will have written for yourself and others; seen and felt energy and provided intuitive and healing information for others in the room. You will feel an expansion of your awareness and enjoy the knowledge that you have the ability to really can tap into and be guided by your higher intuition.

Extension Healing Workshop

This 2 hour workshop will challenge you to expand your awareness, allow you to practise healing and tune into yourself and others for higher information. It will give you the opportunity to ask some 'big' questions and share answers.

While it is has been designed in response to requests from past workshop participants as an expansion of work done previously, these are also open to anyone interested in understanding and working with channelled writing and healing energy. It is a particularly good workshop for healing and intuitive practitioners who are keen to share experiences and expand their understanding through this sharing. We will focus on expanding your ability to 'tune in' opening you further to your ability to trust what you 'see' and 'feel'. This is a wonderful opportunity to practise what you know in a comfortable space.
