Comet Panstarrs (early April 2013): Visible in Northern Hemisphere.

In early April, the Comet Panstarrs (refer to my March 2013 writeup above for details of this comet) will be visible in the Northern Hemisphere in the west/north-west skies...

The easiest way to find it is to draw a line from Jupiter (looks like the brightest star in the sky), through the Pleiades cluster and you will arrive at Panstarrs – just below the Andromeda Galaxy.

Here are some helpful location instructions:

Black Dwarf Star (2 April 2013): On the 31 March to the 2 April 2013, Earth will orbit through a portal of energy (a gravity trough) that connects our Sun with an inbound Black Dwarf Star from the Leo Constellation. This event will electromagnetically charge the Earth's crystalline matrix, with the effect of potentially shifting its axis and triggering earthquakes within the 'ring of fire' (see image).

The Earth has been found to have significant shifts in its axis every 188 days.. with the most recent events including Chile (27 February 2010 – magnitude 8.8), Christchurch New Zealand (4 September 2011 – magnitude 7.1), Fiji (15 September 2011 – magnitude 7.3), Japan (11 March 2011 – magnitude 9) and Alaska (26 September 2012 – magnitude 7).

When we become conscious of our energetic interactions within our SolarSystem, Galaxy and greater Cosmos, then we have the potential to work with these energetic exchanges for our highest good, in reverence of all life and for the greater good of all. We have the potential to be proactive conductors or bridges of these events rather reactionary agents of fear.

On the 26th of April, on the full moon we have a partial lunar eclipse (the first eclipse for the year). A Lunar Eclipse is where the Earth blocks the suns rays from partially/fully reaching the moon. Thus in a sense the 'past' can be dissolved during the Eclipse as one moves forward in the now (as the moon is no longer shadowed by Earth).

Partial Lunar Eclipse (26 April 2013): The full moon of the 26 April 2013 is also our first lunar eclipse of the year.

A Lunar Eclipse is where the Earth blocks the suns rays from partially/fully reaching the moon. Thus in a sense the 'past' can be dissolved during the Eclipse as one moves forward in the now (as the moon is no longer shadowed by Earth).

The lunar eclipse aspect is about working on your inner self, and illuminating yourself from within. We will be inspired this full moon/eclipse to open our gifts to higher degrees of frequency and anchor these on the Earthly plane. It is time to take ownership and acknowledge your divine magnificence... and shine brightly from within...it is time to eclipse anything that maybe holding you back.

In Australia, if you live in WA you will be able to see the entire event. If you live in Eastern Australia you will be able to see the beginning Penumbra and the Maximum, but not the end Penumbra as the moon will be below the horizon. Other places to catch the entire event include: eastern Europe or Africa or central Asia. At the instant of greatest eclipse the Moon will be at the zenith for an observer just east of Madagascar. Eastern parts of South America will experience moonrise with the eclipse already in progress, but none of the eclipse is visible from North America.

Wesak (26 April 2013): The April full moon is also the Wesak Moon.

Wesak is the first full Moon for the year in Taurus , the time when the veil is thinnest between the higher dimensional planes (6th Dimension Pleiades, 7th Dimension Sirius & 8th Dimension Galactic Core) and the Earthly plane (1st Dimension Crystalline Earth's Heart).

This year the Taurus Sun Full Moon occurs in April, hence Wesak is in April. Due to religious/cultural followings and the gregorian calendar, there are many people who will be celebrating Wesak this year on the 25 May 2013.

With a large collective consciousness focusing on this May date, this unto itself will create a potential through conscious thought-form. Thus may I suggest on the 25 May 2013 connect deeply and bring the energetics from the 26 April 2013 (Sun in Taurus full moon) into your full moon ceremonies... to honour the full potential of this Wesak in 2013.
